FEEDING RECOMMENDATIONS AND DIRECTIONS

- DAIRY ULTRA 100 can be fed in total mixed rations or top dressed to increase the energy density of the rations.
- To achieve maximum benefits from adding DAIRY ULTRA 100 to your ration, start by feeding 2 oz per head in the pre-fresh dry cow (steam-up) ration two weeks before calving.
- Feed DAIRY ULTRA 100 for the first 120 days of lactation or as long as body condition is less than desired.
- DAIRY ULTRA 100 should be introduced gradually into your ration to allow the cows to adjust. Increase at a rate of 4 oz every 4 days until the desired level is achieved.
- In rations where no supplemental fat is used, DAIRY ULTRA 100 may be fed up to 2 1/2 lbs (40 oz) per cow per day.
- In rations where supplemental fat is used, DAIRY ULTRA 100 may be fed up to 1 1/4 lbs (20 oz) per cow per day.
- Do not exceed more than 6% of ration DM as non-inert fat. With DAIRY ULTRA 100, fat may be increased to 9% of ration DM.

PACKAGING: Available in 50 lb easy-open bags, with 0.5 mil liners for moisture protection.

ADVANTAGES

RUMEN INERT FAT

1. Inert fats do not disrupt rumen fermentation.
2. Inert fats have greater intestinal digestibility because of less alteration when passing through the rumen.
3. Inert fats require no special handling and storage.
4. Aflatoxin free.

ENERGY

1. Helps maintain body condition during negative energy balance when dry matter intake is limiting. Example: during early lactation.
2. Increasing the energy density of the ration helps minimize rebreeding problems, maximize milk production and maintain body condition.
3. Since fats are 2.25 times more dense than grains, inclusion of DAIRY ULTRA 100 into the ration will help reduce the amount of grain required.
